PETITIONS TO SILENCE ROOSTER

Pale and excited mentally, morally and physically disturbed, George Thomas of No. 10 Moscow street, Atlantic, rushed into the office of Mayor William P. Shea of Quincy today and slammed a petition on the desk.

"I'm a sick man," he muttered. "I can't stand it any more. It will ruin all of us."

"What? What's the matter?" stammered the Mayor, aroused by his visitor's excitement.

"I signed the Board of Health to end it all on the 24th of August, but they didn't. Now I want something done," Thomas demanded.

"But, what's the matter?" asked the Mayor again, preparing to push the police button.

"Oh, it's Bill McInnes's rooster. Can't you see what he's done? He'll be the end of all of us," came the reply between gasps.

Crows in Stilly Night.

Mayor Shea was excited himself by this time. He picked up the document with trembling fingers. This is what he read:

To the Honorable Mayor and Board of Health, Quincy:

Gentlemen: Respectfully representing George Thomas of No. 10 Moscow street, Atlantic, that he is the owner of and resides with the family on said premises; that William McInness, residing on Moscow street, next to your petitioner, has for a long time been in possession and control of a certain cockerel, or rooster, which he, McInness, keeps and maintains on the premises occupied by him on said Moscow street; that SAID ROOSTER, NOT CONTENT WITH CROWING DURING THE HOURS OF DAYLIGHT, AS IS THE USUAL AND NATURAL CUSTOM OF COCKERELS, CONTINUES TO CROW DURING THE HOURS OF THE NIGHT IN SUCH A LOUD WAY AND MANNER, AND WITH SUCH FREQUENCY AS TO DISTURB AND ANNOY THE SLUMBER OF THOSE LIVING IN THE NEIGHBORHOOD.

That your petitioner is so near the premises of said McInnes and the crowing of said cockerel as to be seriously annoying and disturbing of the sleep of your petitioner that he is MENTALLY DISTRESSED, AND IN CONSEQUENCE OF THE LOSS OF SUCH SLEEP HAS BEEN MADE SICK AND HIS HEALTH HAS BEEN UNDERMINED; that his family has also suffered much mental and general discomfort as a result of the nocturnal crowing of said cockerel.

Neighbors Join the Plea.

Wherefore, your petitioner prays that such action be taken by your honorable body as will relieve the situation as hereinbefore set forth, so that your petitioner and his family may enjoy the quiet and repose and slumber to which they are entitled.

This document was signed by Thomas himself. Attached to it was another petition, signed by seven Atlantic men, all of whom are prominent and well-to-do.

We, the residents of that part of Quincy known as Atlantic, suffering the annoyance and loss of sleep as hereinbefore described, join in the petition and prayer that your honorable board will grant the relief prayed for. The signers were Charles A. Gould and M. E. Gould, No. 359 Hancock street; Walter J. Burgess, No. 42 Holmes street; Jonathan M. Clementa, No. 4 Moscow street; Royal S. Eastman, No. 357 Hancock street; School Committeeman Herbert S. Hersey, No. 353 Hancock street, and Arthur H. Stowers, No. 2 Moscow street.

WOMAN WHIPPED BY WIFE

Miss Edith M. Emmons was horsewhipped on High street in Waltham on Tuesday night last by Mrs. Anna M. Priestadter, a jealous wife, and appeared to-day in court before Judge Luce to prosecute her assailant.

Mrs. Priestadter, who had pleaded not guilty, was found guilty, but the case was placed on file and she was put under $50 bonds to keep the peace for six months. The bond was furnished by Miss Bella Ryan, a woman attorney who appeared for Mrs. Priestadter.

Miss Emmons, who is thirty-two years old, is employed in the adjusting department of the American Watch Company, where Mrs Priestadter's husband also works. She came to court wearing a green dress and a wide-brimmed hat. She is petite and attractive. Former Senator John L. Harvey was her attorney.

The Emmons and the Priestadter families are neighbors. The former live at No. 32 High street and the latter at No. 65.

Frank H. Emmons, her father, was the first witness and testified that his wife and daughter went out on the evening of September 12 to attend a lodge committee meeting at No. 117 Chestnut street. He said that in half an hour Miss Emmons came home in a dishevelled condition. There was a cut on her forehead and welt on her face. She was hysterical. She told him that Mrs. Priestadter had whipped her.

Wife Called at Home.

Mr. Emmons, when cross-examined by Miss Ryan, said that Mrs. Priestadter visited his home two months ago and told him that she did not want his daughter keeping company with her husband.

"Was not Miss Emmons in the house when Mrs. Priestadter called?" asked Miss Ryan.

"Did not Mrs. Priestadter ask you to send for your daughter?"

"She did," Mr. Emmons said, "but my daughter was taking a bath."

He said he had requested Mrs. Priestadter to talk with his daughter about her antagonistic conduct. Priestadter did.

Miss Emmons, who testified next, said she is a member of Waltham Lodge of Odd Ladies, and while she was at a committee meeting she received from a boy a message to the effect that Priestadter wanted to see her on the corner of Moody streets.

"When I got there," said Miss Emmons, "I saw a woman sitting on the steps of the Unitarian Church. I went up to her and asked, 'Are you Edith Emmons?' I replied, 'Who are you?' She said, 'I see you again on the street with my husband I will beat you.' I turned my back and ran. She struck me a blow with the butt of the whip on the forehead and struck me several times on the face with the lash.

Wife Tells Her Story.

"I never met Mr. Priestadter on the street or anywhere else by appointment, but have occasionally persuaded him to walk home with me from the watch factory. When I got the message which I supposed came from him I thought he had met with some accident, or I should not have left the meeting."

When Mrs. Priestadter took the witness stand she said her husband had been absent from home for three months and that he would not return, although she had repeatedly asked him to come back and support her and their two children. She had done washing and ironing, she said, to provide for herself and the children.

The whip, she testified, had been bought by her husband to use upon Alderman Paul F. Roberts. She said her husband accused the alderman of calling him a name.

"I had heard stories about Miss Emmons keeping company with my husband," said Mrs. Priestadter, "and I have met her. But I have no recollection of striking her with the whip."

Mrs. Priestadter has filed suit against her husband in the Superior Court in East Cambridge for separate maintenance. She asks for the custody of the children, Frank Hancock street, and Arthur H. Stowers, No. 2 Moscow street.

ROBERT B. M'ROY, WHO, WITH M'ALEER, WILL LEAD RED SOX

ROBERT B. M'ROY

CLOSE RED SOX DEAL TO-NIGHT

Final details of the deal by which Robert B. McRoy of Chicago and James R. McAleer of Utica will become active directors of the Boston American League Baseball Club will probably be closed up to-day, and the new regime will be ready to-night to leave Boston. There is a lot of work awaiting Secretary McRoy in the league's headquarters at Chicago, and Manager McAleer must return to his Washington job.

There was another conference on the slate to-day, but none of the parties interested had any idea that there would be a hitch in the proceedings. President John Lee, who is "supervising" the deal, was anxious to get back to Chicago, and said he might leave this evening.

Full Authority for "Two Macs."

It is no secret in baseball that Messrs. McAleer and McRoy will have full authority to run the team, whether or not they purchase as much as a half interest. General Taylor and the son, John L., may continue to hold stock. The probabilities are that their holdings will consist of the war estate at Ipswich, Jersey and Lansdowne streets, where the new ball grounds are to be constructed.

Until the deal is finally "fixed up," the new magnates will not say anything about their plans. However, it is believed that Mr. McRoy will be given full charge, and that Mr. McAleer, who has had a lot of experience in the managing line, will take care of the players. He may be actual manager himself, or may appoint one of the Red Sox, possibly Bill Carrigan, playing manager.

Boston Is McAleer's Preference.

The veteran outfielder and manager has long been anxious to get a share of some big league club, and Boston has always been his preference, for he considers this the best of baseball cities.

Mr. McRoy has been on the "inside" so long that there is life he does not know about baseball in general and the American League in particular.

President John I. Taylor has said right along that he would sell out if he got his price. If he did know how much the new owners are paying for their stock, but it is certainly enough to give the Taylors a big profit on their investment.

RUNAWAY BOYS FOUND.

Two Bridgewater boys who were bound for the wild and wooly West to make their fortunes were found wandering on the streets of Cambridge early to-day, and were arrested by Patrolman Wynn after a chase. Their parents were notified and the boys were taken home. They are Arthur Johnson, seventeen years old, No. 288 Broadway, and Orlon Desjerlais, No. 17 Cottage street, both of Bridgewater.

DR. WILEY UPHELD BY TAFT

A decision of nation-wide importance and one that threatens to disrupt his cabinet was made by President Taft to-day when he made public at Beverly a statement exonerating Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, chief chemist of the Department of Agriculture, from charges of conspiracy made by the personnel board of the department, which had recommended that he, with other officials of the bureau of chemistry, "be allowed to resign."

The President issued the statement first shortly after 8 o'clock. Then he recalled it, stating that he wished to further review it. He finally permitted it to go out, however, in its original form.

The charges grew out of the employment of Dr. H. H. Rusby of New York as expert chemist and witness in the enforcement of the pure food and drug laws.

The President declares in his decision that Dr. Wiley was justified in all that he did regarding the employment of Dr. Rusby, and that he is entitled to sympathy in his effort to secure the enforcement of the laws against adulterated foods.

The President recommends, however, the reprimanding of Dr. L. F. Kebler and Dr. W. D. Bigelow of the bureau of chemistry for what he terms unpleasant conduct.

Radical Action Expected.

More radical action may be expected, the President indicates, when he takes up the entire question in the Department of Agriculture as a result of the investigation by a committee of the House.

The President's decision is in the form of a letter to Secretary Wilson. President Taft began the writing of it yesterday but did not give his final approval to the document until early to-day.

President Taft declares that Attorney-General Wickersham based his opinion on the recommendation of the personnel board which, he says, "is open to grave criticism, as the members and its associates on only a part of the evidence."

The opinion of Mr. Wickersham would have been different, the President declares, he believes, had the attorney general "had before him the entire evidence."

The official statement given out by the President addressed to Secretary of Agriculture Wilson is in part:

"I return herewith the papers which you have submitted to me in the matter of the report of the Committee on Personnel, and in the report of Attorney-General Wickersham on the evidence adduced before them. They recommend that H. H. Rusby, pharmacologist of the Bureau of Chemistry, be dismissed from the service; that Dr. L. F. Kebler of the drug laboratory in the Bureau of Chemistry be reprimanded in the present position and by W. D. Bigelow, assistant chief of the Bureau of Chemistry, be reprimanded in the present position and by H. W. Wiley, chief of the Bureau of Chemistry, Dr. W. D. Bigelow, assistant chief of the Bureau, be given an opportunity to resign from the position which they now hold in the Bureau of Chemistry or the authorities to the appointment of Dr. H. H. Rusby. The facts shown by the papers are briefly, as follows:

Reviews the Facts.

"Dr. Rusby lived in New York and was employed as a scientific expert in the Bureau of Chemistry to examine importations of drugs under an agreement by which he received $20 a day for the fall months and $50 a day for attendance in court. On May 24, 1909, the Secretary of Agriculture advised the Secretary of the Treasury that, under the terms of the fourth statute, number 1260, the Secretary was authorized to employ Dr. Rusby at a salary of $9 a day when actually employed, not to exceed $6 a day, on the average, for any month, and not to exceed 90 days in any fiscal year. May 29, 1909, an order was issued by the Secretary of the Treasury fixing the rate at a salary of $9 a day when actually employed.

"Dr. Rusby's duties in this and applied in Dr. Kebler, chief of the drug laboratory, under a different arrangement. The matter seems to have been left to the discretion of Dr. Rusby. Finally, at the request of the conference held in the office of Dr. Wiley with respect to the request of Dr. Rusby for an increased compensation, Dr. Wiley called to Dr. Rusby's

AIRY "LID" TAKES COUNT IN FIGHT WITH NEW DERBY

The 1911 crop of straw hats suffered a devastating "frost" to-day.

It was an early close for the airy lids. Family Boston is the last city in America on to discard them. The man of fashion has long frowned on this bit of careless dress. So to-day he joined hands with the weather man and swept off the straw hats by force on the day decreed for them to be put into oblivion.

Only a few scattering light bonnets were seen about Boston to-day. They were worn by the Broken Mrs. the Careless Hat, the Freshman and the Man Who Likes to be Different. The last stores were now decked with the ordinary Mrs.

Over in the Stock Exchange, where they like to do things in a frenzy, they nearly wind up the straw season with a hat rush. The brokers were ready for the fray to-day, but straw hats were so few that there was little doing. In Cambridge the new crop of students appeared with fancy lids, as usual. No one knows what they were made of, but it wasn't straw.

GERAGHTYS ATTRACT ATTENTION AT SHOW

NEWPORT, Sept. 15.—When Miss Honey Fitz, the Mayor's amiable, opinion, held the hands at the Newport Opera House, Mr. and Mrs. "Jack" Geraghty received as much attention from the audience as the leading character. Mrs. Elsie Forest Vanderbilt, who occupied a box, waved her handkerchief in response to Mrs. Geraghty's salutation, while Vincent Astor and Miss Margaret Anderson exchanged smiles with her. Earlier in the day her grandmother, Mrs. Stuyvesant Lefferts Fenelon, sat her call.

HADLOCK CASE PLACED ON FILE

The case of John C. Hadlock indicted for violation of the election laws in filing false nomination papers for the unsuccessful election of 1910, has been placed on file by District Attorney Pelletier, as the result of an affidavit received from Superintendent Charles P. Bancroft of the New Hampshire State Hospital at Concord, where Hadlock is a patient. The affidavit is as follows:

"I, Charles P. Bancroft, superintendent of the New Hampshire State Hospital, located at Concord, N. H., hereby depose and say that Mr. Joan C. Hadlock was committed to this institution on the second day of April, 1911, as at present an inmate of this hospital.

"I further depose and say that the said John C. Hadlock at the time of his commitment was and is still insane. The nature of his malady is such as to lead me to feel that he has a dementing aspect, and that he was irresponsible for a long time prior to the time he was committed to the institution, and is in no condition now to attend to any business whatever.

"The nature of his malady is such that I do not feel that he will ever fully recover, and he is unable to give any further attention to business matters.

The indictment charges that on December 1, 1910, Hadlock filed a false list of certain nomination papers purporting to be the signatures of Joseph Hurley and John C. Hadlock, for the office of Mayor of Boston and City Councillor, to be voted for at the election to be held in the said city of Boston on the seventh day of December, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and ten.

GAIN $2,178 IN GOVERNMENT SUIT

The United States government collected $2,178 for land it has taken in North Weymouth as a site for an army magazine, and John Crowley, John F. Crowley, Harry M. Crowley and Rose G. Gilmore, all heirs of Sallie A. Crowley of East Boston, sought to recover the value and took the case to court. Today a United States District Court jury awarded them $2,178 for the three and a half acres which the government has taken.

KING'S GREETING TO PRESIDENT

BEVERLY, Sept. 15.—President Taft to-day received congratulations on his fifty-fourth birthday from many notable personages, among them the King of England. He received several prominent men, played a few holes of golf and spent the rest of the time in getting ready for his tour of the West of 13,000 miles, upon which he starts this evening, leaving Boston from the South Station at 7.35.

The message from King George of England to President Taft was as follows:

Balmoral, Castle, Sept. 15, 1911.

To the President of the United States, Washington:

I have great pleasure in sending you my heartiest congratulations on the anniversary of your birthday and I trust that the friendly relations existing between our two countries may ever continue.

(Signed.)

GEORGE, Imperator, Rex.

Huge Bunch of Roses.

One of the tokens of respect which pleased the President greatly was a huge bunch of one hundred American Beauties, the gift of the citizens of Beverly. An escort during the reception from Mayor Frederick A. Dodge, which read as follows:

"Congratulations and best wishes of the citizens of Beverly.

"MAYOR FREDERICK A. DODGE."

Taft motored over to the Myopia golf course and took a last swack at the putative golf ball before de'ing trip into the West. He beat Dodge a few holes with his aide, Major Archibald Butt, and then returned to the Summer capital.

Governor Foss, one of the last visitors received by President Taft before departing, before his start for the West. The governor called to say his respects to the chief executive and to wish him well in his Presidential good-will tour.

At lunch, President Taft had as his guest, Representative Nicholas Longworth of Ohio.

Trip to Cost $35,000.

The trip of the presidential party will set Uncle Sam back the neat little sum of $35,000, or a little less than $3 a mile. The special trains which bears the President and party will consist of seven cars, including a dining car and a baggage car. Pullman sleeping cars will be used, and the party will be accompanied by President Taft and his immediate family. All of the cars have been overhauled and decorated this week and the last minute touches are being given to the other executive and his assistants.

$500,000 LOSS BY COLD WAVE

With the temperature over thirteen degrees below the normal for this time of year, and the mercury standing more than twenty degrees below the point it reached at this time, a year ago, the cold wave of last night and yesterday morning caused the loss of more than a million dollars to the fruit interests of the state, according to estimates made by fruit growers and shippers today.

Reports received at the office of the state horticulturist indicate that the damage to the fruit crop will be fully $500,000.

Yesterday was the coldest September 14 on record in New England. Last night the thermometer was as low as 30 degrees in Northfield, Vt., and 48 in Fairport, Me. And at this writing, 8 o'clock this morning, the mercury registered 38 in Fairport, Me., and 40 in Northfield, Vt.

The minimum temperature in Boston yesterday was 51, the coldest September 14 on record except 1904, when it was 49, while this morning the mercury registered 58, as compared with 75 at the same hour yesterday. The lowest temperature since midnight was 48 degrees at 3 a. m.

DR. WILEY EXONERATED BY PRESIDENT TAFT IN REVIEW OF CHARGES

mit to you for your approval an appointment of Dr. Rusby at a salary at the rate of $3,000 per annum on the miscellaneous roll.

"Meantime, on February 6, Dr. Wiley submitted to you an appointment of Dr. Rusby at a salary at the rate of $3,000 per annum on the miscellaneous roll. He made the reduction after examining the records and finding the amount of work done by Dr. Rusby during the preceding two years. You approved this appointment.

"After the appointment Dr. Rusbus sent to Dr. Rusby that in the event of the appointment was better than the former at $3,000 per annum, he would be glad to pay for laboratory work at a day for Dr. Rusby's services. Dr. Wiley did not approve of this arrangement, but did not disapprove of it either. The $300 amount each year was paid to Dr. Rusby. Dr. Wiley did not sign this voucher, but he did sign all his work was as not to interfere with your regular duties to a minimum extent.

"This did not satisfy Dr. Rusby, and he sought further information in a letter dated March 1, 1911.

Personnel Board's Charges.

The substance of the charge by the Personnel Board was that Dr. Wiley, Dr. Kebler, Dr. Bigelow and Dr. Rusby, in effect, conspired to put on the record a contract with a general employment of Dr. Rusby's services at $3,000 per year, and secretly made a contract with him by which he was only to do enough work during the year for the $1,000, to secure to him a compensation of $20 per day, and this was done in deliberate and defiant violation of the law as interpreted by the Attorney-General. In the opinion already referred to, in which he held that Congress had limited the compensation of experts to $10 a day, he said:

"After you submitted to me the report of the Personnel Board I asked the Attorney-General to examine it and give me his opinion in respect to the matter, because I desired a revision of the law as interpreted by him in one of his opinions. He did so, and advised me that the members of the Personnel Board ought to be carried out. An examination of the records satisfied me that the question has not been presented to the department in such a way as to enable them to make full decisions. They had only been called as witnesses and cross-examined without a full understanding that they were under trial which might involve their dismissal. Accordingly, I directed you to submit the whole record together with the opinion of the Attorney-General to each one of the persons charged and invite from him an answer. These answers were filed in due course and are quite full in detail.

"The answer of Dr. Wiley specifically denies that he ever saw the correspondence between Dr. Kebler and Dr. Bigelow, and that he ever consciously entered into an agreement or arrangement by which Dr. Rusby was in effect to receive compensation at a rate in excess of that prescribed by the statutes as interpreted by the Attorney-General.

"It is necessary fully to understand this difference between the attitude of a department toward employment at an annual salary of this kind, and the opinion of the Attorney-General in this matter, because if Dr. Wiley and his associates had understood that the $1,000 annual salary required them to exact from Dr. Rusby seven hours a day for all the workdays of the year then of course his employment must have been known to them to be illegal, and under the circumstances to be only a cover for a different contract of employment. But if they understood, as seems to have been the case generally in the Agricultural Department, that such an employment at an annual salary might be entered into with experts of this and another subject the experts to an obligation to work for the department whenever called upon, with the understanding that they had some other vocation to which their chief attention was given, and that in practice the action of Dr. Wiley with a desire to comply with the law.

"The recommendations of the Attorney-General were given on the ground of the evidence and hence his judgment was different. Doubtless from the facts it would have been if he had the more recent evidence before him. I have now given a fairly clear that Dr. Wiley, after the employment of Dr. Rusby at $3 a day for laboratory work, and $20 a day for other work, would annually on $1,000 a year, if the department called on him for services, and that the effect of this was this arrangement to which you consented.

"Should Be Reprimanded."

"In Dr. Kebler's anxiety to induce Dr. Rusby to accept the new terms of employment he certainly betrayed a willingness to construe the contract of employment of Dr. Rusby at $1,000 a year in one way to reconcile it with the law, and in another way to satisfy Dr. Rusby in his wish to secure $20 a day, and I think he ought to be reprimanded for his official incommon conduct in writing such letters as he did.

"He said he did not intend to violate the statute as interpreted by the Attorney-General, and, indeed, he did not intentionally what the ruling was, but whether he did or not, the language of his letters did not have a commendable tone and suggested a willingness to forego a strict adherence for official reproof.

"In respect to Dr. Rusby, I do not find that he was advised at all as to the legal difficulties, and that he was entitled to for additional compensation, which he thought he had secured.

"The truth is, the limitations upon human efforts and benefits of opportunity to exact per diem compensation for the employment of experts in such cases as this is a familiar legislative policy. Here is the pure food act, which is of the highest importance to enforce, and in respect to which the interests opposed to its enforcement are richly to leave all the money at their command needed to secure the most effective expert evidence.

"The government ought not to be at all at a disadvantage in this regard and one cannot withhold one's sympathy with an honest effort by Dr. Wiley to a proper compensation and secure expert assistance in the enforcement of so important a statute, certainly in the beginning when the questions arising under it are of capital importance to the public.

Exonerates Dr. Wiley.

"If this were a knowing, willful, deliberate effort to evade the statute as construed by the Attorney-General, accompanied by a scheme to conceal the evasion and violation, I should think the punishment recommended by the Personnel Board and concurred in by the Attorney-General was none too great; but an examination of the whole case satisfies me that a different consideration ought to be put upon what was done, that the evidence does not show that Dr. Wiley was a party to the correspondence or the letters upon which the elder conspiracy founded and that his action in the matter was only in accord with previous precedents in the department which justify him doing what he did.

"With respect to the other persons charged I feel an over deal in Kebler and Dr. Bigelow, which prompted a disingenuous method of carrying out their desires for what he thought was adequate compensation with the contract which you and Dr. Wiley were willing to make with him, and that for this Dr. Kebler and Dr. Bigelow should be reprimanded by you.

"So far as Dr. Rusby is concerned, with respect to this particular contract, I do not find him at fault. I see no grounds for censure or dismissal. I cannot charge him with knowledge of the legal difficulties involved in his employment.

"Further consideration satisfies me that there are very grave investigations to be solved in the investigation and the evidence there brought out in the present charge which is narrow and definite and can now be properly disposed of. The broader issues raised by the investigation which have a much weightier relations than this one of the general efficiency of the department, may require more radical action than the question I have considered and decided.

"Sincerely yours,
"WILLIAM H. TAFT."

PROTESTS BEQUESTS IN AUNT'S ESTATE

John W. Moran of Lynn has filed an appearance in the Suffolk Probate Court to oppose the probating of the will of his aunt, Mrs. Mary Riley of this city, under which the greater part of her small estate was left to charitable purposes. He opposes the petition for probate on the only surviving heir, and he is left $500 in legacies and friends $100 to Moran and the residue divided equally among the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Home for Friendless Children and the Board for Little Sisters of the Poor, Bixley street. The will was executed June 2, 1908.

NOBLE BLAMES MRS. SUYDAM FOR ESCAPADE

Declares "Eloper" 'Phoned Him To Meet Her, and Tells of Their Adventures.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—Frederick Noble, slender and auburn-haired, sat in his office of his brother and explained how he came to be the motif of the "elopement" of Mrs. Louise White Suydam, the attractive young wife of Walter Lispenard Suydam, Jr., of New York and Blue Point, L. I.

After a two-borough chase the twenty-one-year-old "confidant" of the young society matron was cornered by a reporter for the AMERICAN at No. 475 Broadway.

"The young man told of the affection Mrs. Suydam manifested for him, of their many meetings, and finally of the events immediately preceding and following her disappearance from the magnificent Summer home of her husband at Blue Point on the afternoon of Tuesday, September 5.

"We had many good times together," said young Noble, his steel-gray eyes lighting up. "But we didn't carry our good-natured fun to such an extent that she would elope with me. I did not know Mrs. Suydam had eloped until I read it in the papers last Tuesday. That was a week after I had met her in New York in response to a telephone call.

"On the morning of the day she disappeared I came to town on the 6:45 a. m. train from Blue Point. I went to work as usual here and in the morning Mrs. Suydam called me on the 'telephone. 'I am going out of town to visit friends,' she said over the wire, 'and I would appreciate it if you would meet me at the Pennsylvania station at twenty minutes to six this evening, when my train arrives.'

"I went to the Pennsylvania station and met Mrs. Suydam. She seemed in her usual spirits. I looked after her baggage—a small trunk. She also carried a hand-bag and a hat box. We drove to the Park Avenue Hotel, where she registered, under what name I don't know. Then we went to the Hofbrau for dinner and afterward took a ride on a Fifth avenue bus.

"I escorted her back to the Park Avenue Hotel and left her. This was about 11 o'clock. She asked me to come for her next morning and take her to the Grand Central Station, from which her train was leaving. I called for her next day, and about 10 o'clock she took a train on the lower floor of the Grand Central Station via the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad. I did not inquire where she was going and I haven't the slightest idea where she is now."

Mrs. Walter Suydam, Jr., heroine of "elopement" and her pet dog.

Didn't Know of Differences.

Young Noble said Mrs. Suydam had never discussed her domestic affairs with him, and that, so far as he knew, her married life was happy.

He declared that since the morning he saw Mrs. Suydam off on the train, he had either been at his father's home in Brooklyn or with friends in Yonkers. He said he had kept quiet because he dreaded the notoriety attendant upon the young society matron's disappearance.

"Do you love Mrs. Suydam?" was asked.

"Honestly," he replied, "I don't know. I've never been in love. I wouldn't know what love was if I met it."

"What is Mrs. Suydam's type of beauty?"

"I never thought of that," replied young Noble, a puzzled look bespeaking his features. "I couldn't even tell you the color of her eyes. I never gazed into her eyes under the shimmering of the moon."

Noble is a tall man of twenty-one, spare of build but with square shoulders and well-knit frame. His eyes are blue, his hair light and wavy, and he has a straightforward way of talking that makes an agreeable impression.

"I can only say this," he continued, "I would not consider falling in love unless Mrs. Suydam were to be divorced. As for my affection, she may have for me I cannot tell. There is nothing to indicate such a feeling on her part."

Noble spoke so freely of his Summer night meetings with Mrs. Suydam as to tell of his efforts to entertain her when she came to New York. He said that he had known her husband before his marriage and had frequently gone fishing with him. After the marriage he met and then saw the wife. He had been to the home to call a few times, but for the most part he had met the young woman out of doors and in the evening.

"I used to sit on the postoffice steps and wait for her," he explained. "On nice Summer nights she would walk over to the postoffice about the time the evening mail came in, and I would walk back with her. Certainly there was no harm in that. Oh, yes, the situation was romantic."

Noble said that Mrs. Suydam had never told him that she had confessed to her husband that she no longer loved him and that he (Noble) had replaced him in her affections. "Suydam himself made this statement," Noble added. "If she did love me she kept the matter to herself."

The young man was not decided when he would return to Blue Point, where he is likely to face Suydam. He admits that he doesn't "feel broken" to go, but he stoutly maintains that his only crime is being courteous to a woman, and that if people would only look at the matter in that light he would be greatly relieved.

"Doesn't Know What Love Is," Although They Took Romantic Walks.

'SMOKES FOR WOMEN' IN BOSTON TEA ROOM

Fair Puffers Can Enjoy Their Cigarettes as They Discuss Society.

By GERTRUDE L. MARVIN.

Boston women smoke.

Not only in their homes—though not yet, to be sure, to public dining rooms—but even in the homes of their friends, and even in the Chilton Club. Oh, no! Chestnuts!

There is a tranquillity, semi-club—whose chief requisite for joining membership (and it has no other) is a $5 deposit—dining-room-tea-room, underground establishment on Berkeley street, right opposite the Public Gardens, which has a luxuriously appointed smoking room below stairs, for the use of both men and women.

"Women smoke?" says Mrs. Margaret Bradley Purdy, president of the club, manager of the tea room and restaurant, and originator of the whole scheme. "Certainly! I believe Boston is ready for women's smoking, and the women do go down there to smoke frequently. I have fitted it up not for men alone, but for the women, and I see no reason why I should try to conceal the fact."

That the place is not "Semleh" only adds to its piquancy. He he ever so well groomed, the man—and many a Bostonian has adopted the English trick of stopping

MRS. MARGARET BRADLEY PURDY

Mrs. Margaret Bradley Purdy, as manager and presiding genius of the Assembly Tea Rooms, Boston's most up-to-date gathering place for women.

Mrs. Purdy, Promoter of New Enterprise, Sees Nothing Startling in It.

spindle legged tables of the modern high art tea room, the guests sit back in deep cushioned chairs, and cosy window seats, almost under the splash of the fountain, while deft maids in black china silk gowns and cobweb aprons bring them quaint pots of tea and delicate sandwiches.

That Smoking Room.

With all the exclusiveness of this club arrangement, there is in the building, up on the second floor a dining room for the general public, and here any one may have luncheon or tea or dinner. This upstairs dining room is of the same shape as the room below, and is more simply furnished in browns and yellow, with long gilt pier glasses and gossamer yellow curtains at the windows.

Yesterday afternoon there was a reception in the tea room for a prominent actress, given by members of another club who are also members of this club. The visitors exclaimed over the charms of the rooms, saying that New York had nothing as attractive.

"But you haven't seen our most popular room," said Mrs. Purdy, "our smoking room downstairs."

"Oh," said the visitor, "you have a smoking room for the men?" "And women, too," added Mrs. Purdy, leading the way down a winding stairway.

Here was a telephone for the use of members, and completely appointed dressing rooms, the white trays on the dressing tables filled with all the pharmacopeia of beauty—pins, white pins and black pins and hair pins, and brushes and combs, powder, and even let it be whispered, a little stick of rouge.

Back into the telephone room again, and down a passage leads you in the centre of Awfulness, the Throne Room of Emaciation and the Shrine of Nicotia. The heavy dark furniture and the brown leather upholstery suggest it.

The soft brown curtains in the window symbolize tobacco in their color. It is indeed the smoking room. And yet—once you get in there and become accustomed to it, it is not so bad, it isn't, really. Mrs. Purdy, the president of the club and manager of the tea rooms is an interesting combination of the capable business woman and the clever artist.

Going In—Coming Out

Going in for a Bargain—coming out with a frown. That never happens at Wilson Bros., the Secular st. jewellers, who have no strings on their bargains, who never flash dazzling diamonds or gaze-thin watches at sensational prices and then sell you 50 per cent good stone for something else, but still how different in the morning. Wilson Bros. open at 7:30 a. m. Repairing done while you wait; prices reasonable. Large stock to choose from. Watches and your watch repaired; 10 skilled watch makers in 5 high-class factories; glasses repaired while you wait; open evenings.

the day's rush of work at 4 o'clock for a cup of tea—who is greeted by the words "Assembly Tea Rooms" on the attractive yellow door, close by the English cozy nest window which fairly beckons him in, will go in only to be seized by the gigantic butler in immaculate white livery whether he has an appointment to meet somebody. If he hasn't all he gets is a glimpse of the charming interior, and the cozy little tables where—and there are men, but always with women.

Cozy and "Comfy."

The woman member who sweeps in past the disappointed man as he goes out, whether she bring a man with her or not, goes up the two steps to the main room, and is in a beautiful setting at once. A wonderful Oriental rug, full of shimmery, silvery tones, is under foot; a mahogany settle and mahogany chairs invite people whose guests are late to wait in comfort before a fireplace, where already Autumn fires have been kindled. It is hard to realize that the rattle and dust of Boylston street is almost within arm's reach, the place is full of the feeling of seclusion. Commonplaceness seems miles away.

A smiling little French head waitress, wonderfully chic in her black gown and absurd little lace apron, inquires with just the least little chic taste of an accent whether madame will dine, but the member prefers tea, and goes on down the street room to the Providence street end.

For Mrs. Purdy has had the whole interior of the ground floor of the old Boylston-street building knocked into one long, high-ceiled room; the end towards Boylston street is a dining room, done in French gray and old rose, with gray wall curtains at the windows, and the far end, towards Providence street, is the tea room proper. Here are graceful water color mural decorations, beyond the doubled white columns which signify the division from the dining room; here is comfortable green wicker furniture of attractive design; here is even a grand piano, in a dull mahogany case, and a wonderful old white marble fountain which tinkles away most cheerfully in the bay window at the end.

GREAT RUSH OF DAFFYDILS

While it is true that the Daffydil Editor has still some small remnants and shreds of sanity left, he is anxious to inform all of the thousands of "Daffydil Club" members of New England, that duplicates of daffydils already printed in the AMERICAN, and credited to other authors, cannot "get by" his vigilant eye as long as he retains any vestige of sanity.

The prizes will be awarded next week, as usual, for the best daffydils received up to Thursday night, as follows:

First prize, $20.
Second prize, $10.
Third prize, $5.
Fourth to eighteenth prizes, $1.
Nineteenth to 318th prizes, Dad's famous Daffydil book.

Be original! The variety of topics about which it is possible to write a prize winning daffydil have not yet begun to be exhausted. Politics, police, finance, etc., are all good topics for unique and original daffydil writers.

Look those over—just received this morning.

If a man bets on a race horse, what does alphabet? Norman E. Whitmarsh, No. 168 Asbury st., Jamaica Plain.

If there is a spring in the bed, why do we have to get up for a drink? Mrs. Bessie Watt, No. 3 Converse pl., Woburn.

If a discouraged farmer is blue jay? A. O. White, Newton Centre.

If the tide is like velvet, is the ocean surge— B. B. Church, No. 24A Union av., city?

If the population of England is twenty-seven million, is that more than Dublin, Ireland? W. H. Rimbo, No. 1 Francis st., Auburn, R. I.

If Battling Nelson bought a suit of blue jeans, would he be overhauled? Patrick O'Brien, East Walpole.

If a man can bowl 116, what can a sugar bowl? Martin Welton, No. 28 Villa av., Everett.

If a nail will get into a cornfield, would the grain boil? Mrs. M. Farrace, No. 14 Kingston st., Lynn.

If Boston has a population of over 730,000, has Baltimore? A. Mary Quill, No. 63 Rice st., Cambridge.

If I turn my own lots a field, will she become real estate? Thomas Watson, No. 19 Bentley st., Roxbury.

THE RULES.

Mail your daffydils to the Daffydil Editor, Boston AMERICAN, P. O. Box 3047, Boston, Mass.

Write on one side of the paper only.

Sign your full name and address.

The best daffydils sent in during the week, up to Thursday night, will be published in the Sunday AMERICAN.

The writers of the daffydils published in the Sunday AMERICAN will be awarded prizes.

Every daffydil published in the Sunday AMERICAN will draw a prize, either cash or book.

Ten sample daffydils will be published each weekday, but those printed as samples in the Sunday AMERICAN will not necessarily win prizes. Only those selected for the Sunday AMERICAN will be prize winners.

LABOR PROTEST SENT TO FOSS

Over 600 representatives of thirty-one labor union locals about Boston gathered at the headquarters of the Cloak and Skirt Makers' Union, No. 21 North Russell street, last night, to protest against Governor Foss signing extradition papers for Nathan Bergan and Louis Brooks of the Cloak and Skirt Makers' local.

Today the Governor makes his final decision in the case.

SEEK MANY FOR LIQUOR FRAUDS

Following the arrest of Martin Alborio, a Boston man, the police throughout the United States and Europe set to work today to run down a gang of men who are said to have defrauded manufacturers, dealers, the public and customs through the handling of inferior grades of liquors with alleged spurious trade marks.

Alborio was arrested in Boston and quietly slipped away to New York when he was arraigned. He is charged with infringement of trademarks, and his apprehension by the police expert, will be followed by a series of arrests of men, who, it is alleged, have fraudulently made thousands of dollars through misleading practices during the last two years.

MAKES BONFIRE OF AIGRETTES

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 15.—Mrs. D. Harry Hummer of No. 3,903 Lake avenue, active in women's clubs and widow of Judge Hummer, today set fire to her collection of white aigrettes, valued at $3000, and watched them burn in a bonfire in front of her home. Dropping the aigrettes into the fire Mrs. Hummer exclaimed: "May I be the last woman in Chicago to wear a headgear costing the lives of innocent birds."

Mrs. Hummer has been years collecting the aigrettes, which were of the "crossed" order. Until she became a member of the Audubon Society she did not know what the nature preachers on the mother bird "crossed" aigrettes, which are related to the breast of the bird, and are worn in many shades. Mrs. Hummer then set about to inform her friends of the cruelty of the trade, and to help Mrs. Hummer burn their aigrettes, too, if they do not know what they are doing.

THE RIBBON CRAZE.

Ribbons, ribbons, ribbons. From present indications it looks as though Fall and Winter fashions will consist of nothing but ribbons with a little clothes on the side. A Fall fashion.

"All orders promptly filled, sir."

"Any change coming?"

"No, guess one more and out on the highway," answer by Yale undergraduate.

2,000 DOGS HAVE BITTEN CATCHER

DENVER, Sept. 15.—Two thousand dogs have now had luncheons off Herman Carn, the official dog catcher of this city, the last to take advantage of his generous girth being a hungry Newfoundland dog which emboldened his instincts on Carn's back. Laughing heartily as he removed the animal's teeth from his anatomy, Carn informed his friends that in being bitten by a Newfoundland dog one of the chief ambitions of his official career had been realized. Following his usual custom, Carn bathed the wound with carbolic acid. He claims to have been bitten 2,000 times.

Carn has been in charge of the local bureau for years and picks up on an average of 10,000 stray dogs every year. If there is a dog in Denver that has not used him for a meal ticket it is the animal's own fault. His legs look like perforated music rolls. While his back resembles a pipe bottom chair. There is no estimating just what he has saved the taxpayers in the way of doctors' expense. He said to-day:

"When a dog attacks you, you have no trouble finding the spot; it's different with a cat. I've been bitten by every kind of dog there is, with one exception. If I could only get an Eskimo dog to bite me the record would be complete."

ACTOR FINNEY SECRETLY WED

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—A wedding announcement to-day makes known for the first time that Jameson Lee Finney, the American actor who was burned to death in the Carlton Hotel, London, on August 9, leaves a widow. He was married on July 12 last to Miss Emily Jex of this city.

The wedding announcement came from Miss Ada Dwyer, the actress, who was a close friend of Mr. Finney, and who makes it at the request of the widow.

Mrs. Finney, who lives with her widowed mother and widowed sister, Mrs. Gregory Sutton, at the Plaza when in this city, is with her mother and sister at Vichy, France. They are expected home early in November.

Mr. Finney's friends in this city had understood he was a bachelor.

O'Sullivan's Heels Already Worn by a Million Americans

No Man Is Older Than His Walk

It's the man who slouches and shambles along through life—listless, depressed, always tired out—who's really old.

And he is really old, as far as efficiency is concerned, even if he hasn't reached the voting age.

The man with the keen, eager step—full of energy, confidence, success—he's always young, no matter if he is a grandfather.

O'Sullivanize Your Walk

Get the head-up, chest-out stride that commands success.

It's the jar and pound of hard leather heels on hard, dead pavements that are doing more than anything else to tire out and wear down the modern man. Every such step is a distinct shock to the nervous system, and this pounding of thousands of steps a day takes the keen edge off any man or woman's energy.

The sparkling eye, the buoyant step and the confident optimism which make a man young (whatever age he may be) are the result of a delicate adjustment of mind, nerve and muscle—and any shock decreases vitality.

O'Sullivan's Heels absorb shocks. They are to the human body what a rubber tire is to an automobile. They are made of new live rubber with the spring in it.

Get a pair at your shoemaker's—he'll put them on for only 50c—then see the difference for yourself.

They should be worn by man, woman and child, and in part are, by healthy and progressive people all over this broad land.

WHAT HEARST FLIGHT AVIATORS ARE DOING

JAMES J. WARD—Arrived at at Calicoon, N. Y., 126 miles from New York. Reaches Waverly today.

CAL. P. ROGERS—Arrives in New York today, starts west Sunday.

ROBERT G. FOWLER—Almost completes repairs of biplane wrecked in Alta, Cal. Will leave there Saturday.

By JAMES J. WARD.

CALLICOON, N. Y., Sept. 15.—If any body wants the job of flying over the country I crossed yesterday in my flight from Paterson to Calicoon he is welcome to it. I want to register the fact right here that this is one of the worst flying courses in America. It was just one trouble after another. Mine commenced when I left Paterson. I certainly appreciate the kindness of my good friends who greet me wherever I happen to land, but if they could only realize that there are what seem to me to be several millions more like them in all the places I stop I think they would not insist on wishing to entertain me so much and shake my hand so vigorously.

No Kisses, Please.

There is one particular thing I especially ask my lady friends to omit. No kisses, please. They tried it on me today. I had to push one sweet young thing out of the way with force. She did not like it. But her displeasure was not a circumstance to my countenance.

I absolutely draw the line on the kisses. I am not competing with Hobson. All my kisses are engaged for many, many moons.

This trip has been a constant fight. When I did not battle with my engine, I scrapped with the air. And when I got a rest from these sources I had to keep my eyes fixed on the country below, constantly guessing if the road were right.

I am not unfamiliar with this Eastern country. I have been here only once or twice. If you put me over the West I can fly in the dark and land in a back yard, but I don't know this East. This has robbed me of a lot of speed.

Windy Near Arden.

From Paterson to this place it was one perpetual climb. I started from an intervale mill in Paterson, and I landed on another hill about 400 feet high. These hills kept growing as I flew along, and immediately outside of Paterson they began to roll up. At Hoskins they made their first bow, but when I got along to Suffern and Tuxedo I thought those hills back in Jersey were beautiful rolling country. It was while I was flying in the neighborhood of the late Mr. Harriman's mansion up on that mountain near Arden that the winds began to bother me. They came bouncing from all sides, and they would shoot up against my aeroplane like a stream of water from a fire hose on the side of a house. Every time a shoot of air hit the plane my craft would jump like a rubber ball. Some times it threw me from 200 to 500 feet into the air. Naturally, this bouncing business did not make things come comfortable for me.

All along this part of the trip I noticed that my motor was missing badly. Aside from getting the compression and the aerial bills and valleys, I had to worry about that motor. And all the while I had to keep on the watch for the steady ideal wind which constantly threatened to blow me north off my course.

Found Air Too Rare.

I discovered that the trouble with my engine today lay in the constantly elevation of the country. The topography kept me flying high. Each succeeding mile put me in rarer air. It made the matter of mixture more difficult.

I had to keep one hand constantly on the adjuster down under the steering wheel while I guided the craft with the other. This is what brought me down at Southfield twenty-five miles from Paterson. I had to come down to fix the carburetor.

In the meantime a gasket had broken off and I knew I could not go on without repairing it. Besides I was not particularly anxious over the necessity for landing. I was frozen clear through. It felt as if I were incased in ice. The piercing winds just blew through my clothes as if they were tissue paper.

Before I came down I had looked for a landing place for ten miles. The little spot at Southfields did not seem bigger than a pocket handkerchief, but I had to chance it. I made it luckily. Contrary to reports, I did not make two starts from Southfields. When I started I jumped quickly 4,000 feet in the air and skimmed over to Middletown.

Eighty Miles an Hour.

The trip from Middletown to Callicoon was a wonder. The country was the roughest I had encountered. I had been warned to look out for the wooded stretch between Otisville and Port Jervis, and I soared 7,000 feet into the air so as to glide to safety if the need arose to come down. Had it been necessary to land I could have glided miles beyond the woods.

On the way to Callicoon I rushed along so swiftly that the towns seemed to overlap each other as I passed. It was here that I flew at the rate of almost eighty miles an hour. It is certainly an experience to fly sixty-nine miles in fifty-five minutes over some of the roughest country in New York State.

I will start early today, and I plan to get certainly as far as Waverly before coming down for the night. I will make stops at Susquehanna and Owego. As soon as I get into better country I intend to make better time.

"SHOOTING" AETNA.

By MORTON BIRGE.

"All ready, Mr. Crater," says the moving picture man.
Smoke up and go the limit. No delay.
Sling the red-hot ashes out,
Throw some lava round about
I want to get this film run off to-day."

He's shooting of volcanoes, is the moving picture man.
He can't be beat for impudence and gall.

He is making Aetna pose
For the moving picture shows.
He hasn't any reverence at all.

The swift and sassy limit is the moving picture man.
There's nothing in all Nature he won't brave.
When Mr. Aetna stunt is through

No one knows what next he'll do—
He probably will pose a tidal wave.

He needs to watch out careful, does the moving picture man.
Some day he may get patient Nature sore.
Just to show what She can do
She may throw a fit or two,
And moving pictures won't move any more.

STRENGTH FOR WEAK STOMACHS

Many Forms of Dyspepsia or Indigestion Arise from the Same Cause and Yield to the Same Treatment.

The experience of sufferers from stomach trouble, who have tried the tonic treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, has been that their trouble has disappeared as soon as the blood was made pure. The numerous disorders of the stomach, as catarrh of the stomach, acid stomach, nervous dyspepsia, neuralgia of the stomach, gastritis, and lack of tone, have the same underlying cause—impure blood. In each case the stomach is weak. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People supply the stomach with the strength it needs by enriching and purifying the blood. Pure blood gives tone to the nerves, muscles, and glands of the stomach and makes it capable of properly performing the work of digestion.

The cure of Mr. J. W. Seaborne, proprietor of the Seaborne Sign Co., of No. 7 Brookline street, Cambridge, Mass., is a strong recommendation of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People for use in stomach trouble. He says:

"About four years ago I was troubled with a very bad stomach. I was short of breath, gas formed on my stomach, my legs felt asleep, though they would give away from under me and I had dizzy, fainting spells which came on me suddenly. My work at that time was on a high scaffolding and, as I nearly fell off once, I had to give it up. My mouth was dry and parched and had a bad taste in the morning.

"My doctor treated me for acute indigestion caused by a bad condition of the blood but gave me no relief that I could see. Then I tried many medicines but they did me no good and I began using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. In a few weeks I was completely cured."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People have also cured rheumatism, indigestion, nervous headaches and many forms of debility and are recommended even if ordinary remedies have been tried without relief.

A copy of our diet book, "What to Eat and How to Eat," will be sent free on request to any one interested.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

GREAT FLOOD AT PITTSBURG

PITTSBURG, Sept. 15.—A terrific storm about 4 a. m. today caused enormous damage throughout Allegheny County and was responsible for the most serious flood in the history of Sharpsburg and Etna. The greater portion of the combined area of these suburbs was under water till almost noon to-day, it being five and six feet deep in places. Several lives are reported to have been lost.

More than $100,000 damage is estimated to have been caused in the two boroughs alone, and no one knows how many bodies of victims may have been carried away by the raging torrent which followed the course of Pine Creek through the two boroughs. The accumulated debris at the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Bridge in Lower Etna formed a big dam and here, when extended from that place to Eighth street, Sharpsburg, and to Dewey Street, West Etna.

At the Spang, Chalfant & Co. mills in Etna 200 men, caught in a trap by the rising waters, hung for hours to the rafters of the building, while a security of skiffs made it impossible to rescue them.

Many families were marooned in the upper stories of their homes without food or water. Efforts to relieve them progressed slowly, owing to the lack of propulsion and to the swift current, which made it impossible to navigate a skiff.

TROOPS CHECK ETNA REFUGEES

CATANIA, Sicily, Sept. 15. A company of soldiers fought a desperate battle with a rabble of homeless, fanatical peasants on the slopes of Mt. Etna, the erupting volcano, to-day, and after a fierce conflict prevented the frenzied women and children from casting themselves into the river of molten lava which is sweeping from the fiery crater of the mountain.

Afflicted with a religious mania, and rendered frantic by the loss of their homes and crops, the peasants and their wives prayed fervently, then tried to leap into the stream of lava. Many of them carried images of the saints in their hands.

The motley stream continued to advance slowly while the crater boomed forth smoke and steam and cinders. The flaming river is now near the Alcantara river.

Many miles of vineyards have been consumed by the fires which are following the fleeing streams.

The water supply of several villages on the mountain side has been cut off by the lava's flow and intense suffering is resulting.

The scene, especially at night, is a thrilling one. Flashes of fire shoot upward from the flaming crater and enormous clouds of steam, which upward it intersects.

There is a constant cannonade of booming sounds in the interior, which are followed by earth tremblings.

Great bowlders shoot upward from the mouth of the crater as though sent from mortars. Strangers are fascinated by the spectacular picture.

Between 20,000 and 30,000 people have fled from their homes upon the mountain side. Those who have not gone to the homes of relatives or friends are cramped in temporary shelters in the fields.

Masses have been erected for religious services, for many of the simple-minded peasants firmly believe that the eruption is punishment for their sins.

He is a strong supporter of the Irish national cause.

HURLBUT LAUDS HARVARD MORALS

"I believe it is untrue, but really too ridiculous to pay to," was the way Dean Hurlbut of Harvard College summed up in substance, his opinion of the charges of H. T. Crane, the Chicago manufacturer, against the morality of the students of American colleges, as told in the AMERICAN of last Sunday.

Though unwilling, in his official capacity as dean, to be drawn into the controversy, or to prolong what he considers a baseless attack on American student morality, Dean Hurlbut strongly denied that any such conditions exist at Harvard as Crane charges, and far from agreeing that student morals are declining clearly at his opinion that the relations between student and instructor have improved.

"Do you know," said the dean in substance, "a friend of mine to whom I was speaking of Mr. Crane's article the other day, told me that in Chicago Crane is not taken seriously? In fact, no little stock is taken in his remarks that the Chicago newspapers don't print them," he said. "I, personally, do not see why he has accordingly attacked student morality.

Harvard Men Are Good.

"What basis has he got for his statistics? If a student dissipates is he likely to tell about it? I feel, and I think I know something of the students, that the proportion is very small instead of the 90 or 95 per cent. mentioned by Mr. Crane.

"Take 2,000 Harvard men and compare them with 2,000 outsiders, and as far as morals go, I think the college men will have no reason to blush.

"In fact, the really downright dissipated man may almost be said not to exist in Harvard.

"Recently I met a Harvard man in a prison to which I was called for a certain purpose. I asked, rather surprised, how he came to be there, and learned that he was there to teach among the inmates.

Praises the Students.

"Another Harvard man, nothing a student get off the car down in Cambridge port, and somewhat surprised at this, asked what he happened to be doing there, and was informed that he went there to teach a class of boys. The wholesome interests outside of college in which Harvard men are engaged are almost innumerable.

"Personally, I feel that the standard of honesty and morality among college men is very high indeed.

"Of course, there are Harvard men who drink, and dissipate to some extent, perhaps, but I come into close contact with large numbers of students, and I am very positive that their percentage is very small.

"As dean of the college, it is very distasteful to me to be quoted on this subject, as the sweeping charges made by Mr. Crane are of such a nature that they need no official reply.

"College men know how much value to attach to such charges, but they are very harmful to people outside the colleges, however little harm they may do within."

See next Sunday's AMERICAN for an article on Harvard's morals by R. T. Crane, 3d, grandson of millionaire R. T. Crane, whose article assailing Harvard morality was printed last Sunday.

COURT MAY GET MAINE FIGHT

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 15.—Secretary of State Davis stands by his latest announcement that Maine has gone "wet" by a majority of 134 and will so formally report to-day. He says he will not recognize the claims that mistakes have been made in the totals sent to him by the clerks of several towns. The case may go to the courts.

Mr. Davis's attitude deals with the signed returns made to him from Limestone and other towns. The clerks of those places have said that by error they added the "yes" vote to the "no" side and the "no" ballots to the "yes" cause. But Mr. Davis declares that even if the clerks came before him and protested they would not be needed. Such protests would make the State "dry" by 261.

They have sent in their figures over their signatures and I will not allow any changes to be made," said Mr. Davis. "I have no right to let the figures in my possession be altered. They are duplicates of the sealed ballots sent to the Governor on the basis of the returns now in my possession. I will make my report on the votes."

Attorneys of note differ as to whether the law provides for a change of figures after the official returns have been filed by the city and town clerks. Some say that no such action can be taken, and that Mr. Davis is right in his attitude.

There are others who assert with equal positiveness that the law provides for an alteration of the returns by a referendum vote, if errors are discovered.

The opinion of Attorney-General W. R. Pattangall will probably be asked. In case of a divergence opinion from the Attorney-general, the Prohibitionists will petition the court for the right to have the figures altered by those town clerks who have admitted that they made mistakes.

Alfred E. M. N. Stevens, national president of the W. C. T. U., and leader of the Prohibitionists, asked a conference with Governor Plaisted to-day.

"Do you suppose everything is being done right at Augusta?"

He supposes everything is being conducted in a perfectly proper manner," was the answer she received.

GOV. FOSS BACK; HAS A BUSY DAY

Governor Foss returned to-day from the governors' conference held during the week at Spring Lake, N. J. His first day at home was a most strenuous one. There was a mass of correspondence at his desk at the State House that had accumulated during his absence.

"Too busy to-day to give out any detailed statement," said the Governor, as he was leaving the State House, "but I shall do so just as soon as I get time. I had a splendid time and gained much valuable information. Such an interchange of ideas could have been other than a good effect."

Shortly before noon, accompanied by his political secretary, George M. Harbon, the Governor left for Billerica to attend the North Middlesex Agricultural Society fair. From there he journeyed across country to Beverly to see President Taft and there paid him his respects before the latter left for his trip West. After seeing the President, Governor Foss journeyed to Weymouth to spend a few minutes at the Weymouth Agricultural Society fair. He returned to the State House to devote a couple hours to his correspondence.

NO DYSPEPSIA, INDIGESTION, GAS OR ANY OTHER STOMACH DISTRESS

Nothing will remain undigested or sour on your stomach if you will take a little Diapepsin occasionally. This powerful digestive and antacid, though as harmless and pleasant as candy, will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you can eat.

Eat what your stomach craves, without the slightest fear of Indigestion or that you will be bothered with sour risings, Belching, Gas on Stomach, Heartburn, Headaches from stomach, Nausea, Bad Breath, Water Brash or a feeling like you had swallowed a lump of lead, or other disagreeable miseries. Should you be suffering now from any stomach disorder you can get relief within five minutes.

If you will get from your pharmacist a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin you could always go to the table with a hearty appetite, and your meals would taste good, because you would know there would be no Indigestion or Sleepless nights or Headache or Stomach misery all the next day; and, besides, you would not need laxatives or liver pills to keep your stomach and bowels clean and fresh.

Pape's Diapepsin can be obtained from your druggist, and contains more than sufficient to thoroughly cure the worst case of Indigestion or Dyspepsia. There is nothing better for Gas on the Stomach or sour odors from the stomach or to cure a Stomach Headache.

You couldn't keep a handier or more useful article in the house.

Miss Blanche Benton, daughter of Colonel and Mrs. Everett C. Benton, was this afternoon married to Carl E. Lonegren, cashier of the Duluth State Bank, Duluth, Minn.

The ceremony, which was witnessed by a large number of friends and relatives, took place in the pretty little chapel on Colonel Benton's estate on Oakley road in Belmont. It was performed by the Rev. Pitt Dillingham of Commonwealth avenue.

Miss Dorothy Draper Benton, the bride's younger sister, was matron of honor. Donald Warner of Duluth was best man and the list of ushers included the bride's brothers, Jay R. Benton and Charles E. Benton, Paul Girling and William Rand.

Hannah Benton was flower girl and Josiah Benton the page. The chapel and the house, where the reception followed later, were decorated in pink and white.

After a wedding tour the young couple will be at home in Duluth Wednesdays in December.

Mr. Russell says that he is a member of the Vesper Club.

He says that on July 10, 1911, he went to the club house and ordered dinner for himself and party. Instead of the dinner being served, he claims that he was rudely and insultingly refused service by an employe of the club, was denied his rights of membership, and was obliged to leave with his guests.

PIMPLES SO DISFIGURING HE SHUNNED FRIENDS

Face Completely Covered. Blackheads, Too. Lasted Four Years. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment and Face Is Now Smooth.

"I was bothered with pimples and blackheads in the worst way for over four years. My face and arms were completely covered with them. The pimples would come out on my face and fester all up. They would scab over, and make my face sore, besides being so disfiguring that I shunned my friends. I tried facial cream balms and lotions with no effect.

"One night I asked a friend what was good for pimples, and he advised me to try Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment which I did. I would wash my face first with hot water and Cuticura Soap, and then put on some Cuticura Ointment, let it stay on five minutes, and then wash my face again with the Cuticura Soap. It would draw the blackheads out as nice, and the pimples, oh say, it was one grand relief to go among my friends and be jolly again. After using two cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment, my face is as smooth as if there never had been a pimple on it. I cannot speak too highly of the Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and I hope others will profit by them as much as I have. I know they will after giving them just one trial." (Signed) Arthur K. Carroll, R. F. D. No. 2, Portsmouth, N. H., May 8, 1911.

Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold throughout the world, a liberal sample of each, with 32-p. book on the skin and scalp, will be sent free, on application to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Dept. 8A, Boston.

KING EXAMINED BY SURGEONS

Surgeons attached to the State Hospital for Criminals at Bridgewater, are today examining the physical condition of Candido F. King to see if he is able to undergo an operation for a serious rupture. Should they decide for the operation on the former promoter and broker, it is probable the operation will be performed at the Bridgewater institution, which is well equipped from a medical and surgical standpoint. Should it be deemed unwise to have the operation performed, the physical condition of the noted prisoner will be made the basis for an appeal to Governor Foss for a pardon.

Wife Works for Pardon.

King's wife has been laboring for several months to obtain a pardon and Former Attorney-General Herbert Parker has taken an interest in the case. In speaking of King's transfer to Bridgewater Mr. Parker said:

"While I expected that this was to be done, I did not know that it had already taken place. I think there will be a better opportunity to observe King's health at the State Hospital, and possibly improve it in a better environment. It was a matter of prison administration to bring about his removal, and I was glad to give what assistance I could. I am in possession of facts from observation that will clearly justify an application for a pardon and assure favorable action upon it. Much depends upon reports of his condition from the State Hospital."

Fear to Use Knife.

King will remain at the State Hospital for an indefinite period. It is said to be likely that a surgical operation will be performed, but if this is not done he will receive medical treatment until his condition shows sufficient improvement for him to return to the prison. The prison doctors did not consider it safe, owing to King's feebleness, to use the knife for the trouble.

During his almost three years at the prison he has done no hard labor, the most severe task to which he was ever put having been the making of stockings, but having been employed in the hospital and library as well as in the prison correspondence school. Lately he has conducted a school for journalism.

King is six feet and weighs almost 250 pounds. Despite his poor physical condition, those who have seen him in the rotunda of the State Prison on visiting days, say that he was as portly and rosy-cheeked as ever.

VICE CONSUL FIGHTS ARREST

A question of international law enters into the arrest of Eduardo M. de Almeida, son of Jaime M. de Almeida, vice consul of Portugal, by the East Cambridge police. He claims that at the time of the alleged offence he was a citizen of Portugal and a consular officer in the service of that country, and contends that his case could be heard only in the Federal courts.

De Almeda was held in $1,500 by Judge McLaughlin in the Superior Court, and is in jail in default of bonds. His hearing in the Superior Court followed arraignment in the Lowell police court, as the alleged offence was committed in that city. In both courts his counsel, Attorney Irish, argued that de Almeda was a consular agent and therefore the case should come under the jurisdiction of the Federal and not State or local courts.

FAT BANKROLL IN UNCLE SAM'S POCKET SAYS MR. M'VEAGH

The fine prospects of a bumper cotton crop are beclouded by the gloom induced by the approximate 15 per cent. shortage in the cereal crops, which will still be above the average. The fact that the country is enormously prosperous agriculturally and is likely to remain so seems to have been entirely overlooked.

The national treasury is on "Easy street."—Secretary of the Treasury Franklin MacVeagh.

MORE NEWPORT SOCIETY ARRIVALS

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 15.—Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Orme Wilson (Caroline Astor), who arrived at the Wilson villa today, are soon to be followed by Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr. (Grace Wilson). The latter have been at San Sebastian, Spain, and other continental resorts. It is reported that Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Sr., mother of Countess Szechenyi, will be at The Breakers" soon for the autumnal season. This will be her first appearance in Newport this year.

MRS. TRUMBULL FORGIVES ARTIST

LONDON, Sept. 15.—Mrs. Edward Trumbull, a former flower girl, whose husband, the American artist, went through a marriage ceremony with Miss Katherine Drier of Brooklyn, is to join him in America soon. She has forgiven him in spite of the fact that he left her and their two children almost penniless. She is still living in the house of Shepherds Bush which her husband leased for her, begging her forgiveness when he sailed for America.

"I know he has acted abominably, but what can I do with these children?" she said today. "One of them is two years old and the other two months. He was always good to them, if not to me, and besides I love him.

"Perhaps he has learned a lesson and will be happier with me from now on. I believe he still loves me, and was only tempted by a chance to succeed his father as an artist. I just can't wait now to get to New York. There is one thing for which I am grateful; that is that he and Miss Drier never lived together. He went to Detroit immediately after the ceremony, and when he returned he told her about it.

"I haven't seen Miss Drier and don't expect to, although I admit that I have an overwhelming desire to see the sort of woman my husband fell in love with."

NAVY MAN FACES GRAVE CHARGES

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 15.—The Navy Department has ordered Rear Admiral E. K. Moore, commanding the Yerba Buena naval station at San Francisco, to intercept Lieutenant Roy C. Smith, United States Navy, upon his arrival at San Francisco tomorrow on the steamer Shinyo Maru.

It is said Smith will be offered the alternatives of having his resignation accepted immediately "for the good of the service" or of being placed under arrest and returned to the Asiatic station and there tried by a general court-martial upon charges of so grave a nature that the specifications are withheld in the department. The officer sent his resignation to Washington some time ago, but afterward withdrew it.

From what has been learned on the feasible paragraph upon which Lieutenant Smith was serving at the time of the offences of which he is accused, it is understood that these were such that their publication would shake the navy as theretofore only those that forced Rear Admiral C. H. Barry out of the service several months ago.

Lieutenant Smith was born in Michigan and appointed to the Naval Academy from that State August 21, 1901. He was commissioned lieutenant January 31, 1910.

JAIL AS REFUGE FOR HENPECKOS

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—Harry Burg, a piano manufacturer, told Municipal Judge Newcomer in court that last night's was the first quiet sleep he had had in the thirteen years he has been married. He spent the night in jail.

"We had been having a spat," he told the Court. "My wife said she would call the police. 'Anything to please,' I told her. 'I'll call them myself.'

When Burg reached the police station there were half a dozen relatives waiting to bail him out, but the husband refused.

"It was the first time I ever got the best of my wife," he said. "I'd rather go to jail than listen to a woman, would you?"

Judge Newcomer did not answer and Burg added:

"O, well, you don't know my wife."

She Did Her Best

She did her best, must be confessed, and nerves fell behind, and now she's quit, is quite quite sure you couldn't mind her telling you that Wilson watches are being selected by those interested in weather. Wilson frosts all watches with a special finish that prevents moisture from collecting on the inside, thereby saving watches from rusting, and some of the largest watch manufacturers in Europe have made sure that they know what they're talking about before they'll have their own watches tested. 5 high-class mechanical glasses repaired while you wait; lenses ground to order.

A Proclamation to the Men of Boston

—It means emancipation from clothes dissatisfaction. Read this important document for the sake of your appearance—and your purse.

You can claim anything that you're able to write in an advertisement, but in this age and generation you must make good every statement or quit advertising, for the simple reason that exaggeration or false statements invariably defeat their own ends.

Talk isn't cheap in the advertising columns of this paper, and we will not fill it with high sounding adjectives that mean less than nothing when you boil 'em out.

We proclaim to every man in this town our ability to save him money—there's a flat statement of fact stripped bare as a plucked goose.

These six Live Kennedy Stores are the largest cash purchasers of high grade clothing in New England. We figure on volume. The profit on our individual sales is so small that the little fellow hasn't a CHANCE to duplicate the values we give.

We do not quarrel with any man who is COMPELLED to charge $5 to $10 more for a suit than we do, in order to make a living, but we do think that any man is foolish who gives up that extra money UNNECESSARILY.

We buy most of our best clothes from

The House of Kuppenheimer

And we buy such big bills that Kuppenheimer is glad to have our business and glad to give us every possible advantage.

We know Kuppenheimer Clothes—and we know all other makes—that's why we choose Kuppenheimer. We're glad to be able to sell them at the prices we do, and our customers are glad to save that extra $5 or $10 and to keep on buying their clothes here, and to send their friends here, too.

That's why our business keeps on growing and growing, and why the larger it grows, the better values we give. Come in and see that what we say is true. A look costs nothing.

THIS is the first word of the season on STEIN-BLOCH and it comes from POSNER

WHEN I made a deal with the firm of Stein-Bloch, last spring, to act as their exclusive agent in Boston, I knew that I was dealing with the makers of the best clothes for men that America ever saw.

The Stein-Bloch styles—the Stein-Bloch fit—the set and hang of every Stein-Bloch suit, from the collar of the coat to the graceful fall of the trousers over the shoe—are so well known to men of good taste that I didn't need to expatiate at any great length upon them.

All I had to do was let the public know that Stein-Bloch clothing could be purchased at Posner's—and the public came to get clothes.

All that I need to do now is let you know that I have in stock the Fall showings from *Stein-Bloch—the neatest—dressiest—most exclusive—and handsomest patterned—line of suits and overcoats that Stein-Bloch ever sent from their shops.

Stein-Bloch* SUITS
$18, $20, $22.50, $25, $30, $35

Stein-Bloch* OVERCOATS
$18 to $50

DRESS SUITS and TUXEDOS
$35 to $60

Maybe you didn't buy a Stein-Bloch last Spring or during the Summer.

The chance is here again—and this is the way I have of telling you about it. You must make up your own mind about coming in to see the goods.

Rest assured there will be no urging to buy—no over-zealous salesmanship. I depend upon your intelligence and the Stein-Bloch clothes to make all sales at

THE SUNDAY AMERICAN

During these few days at this location store will be open evenings till 9 - Saturday evening till 10:30.

Georges LAST

Clean-up

At 14 & 16 Summer St.

Here we must vacate in a week, subject to a 4 or 5 day notice to vacate. Extensive alterations already under way at our new building.

384 Washington St. corner Franklin expect to be in there Oct. 1st. But if there's any delay in the work, or if we suddenly receive notice to vacate this location, we'll be without a home. Because we face this possibility, we have ripped into prices again, and brought them all down to these ridiculous figures, because we shall not move a single garment from this store to our new building.

YOU ask yourself why any store should ever sell garments such as we claim these GEORGES Model Clothes to be at $6, $9 and $12. Ninety-nine times out of a hundred they wouldn't. But a series of unusual and unfortunate circumstances make this time that hundredth one.

$6 AND $9 AND $12

The prospect we face for the next few weeks is so uncertain that we've decided to clear now at any loss.

At these prices for every two and three piece suit, of light and medium weight, also some medium weight overcoats in fancies and black oxford both plain and silk faced, some heavy enough for late Fall wear. Values range $15.00 to $10.00

This is also a great time to buy Winter and Fur-Lined Overcoats—they're selling now at about 33 1-3 cents on the dollar. Also Walking, Prince Albert, Dress and Tuxedo Suits.

Special Raincoat Notice

This is not a specialty Raincoat store but we have the largest stock in Boston in both domestic and imported English Mandelbergs, embracing the best at this popular price range, obtained in America. Every size for men of any proportions.

$2.50 to $25.00

FOR WOMEN

This is a man's store, but we do carry a very complete line of Women's Mannish Raincoats at the above prices.

Aeroplane Fronts

ALWAYS STAY UP

All Opening-of-the-Season Records Broken!

Yes, we have already sold hundreds of suits containing the new Aeroplane Fronts in every coat. Our customers are even more enthusiastic about these fronts than we are, if such a thing can be possible.

Many tailors have already made application for the use of this front—but we repeat that for one year we will not sell any Aeroplane Fronts to other tailors, as we wish our customers to get the first benefit.

Every coat turned out in our 109 stores will absolutely have this "GUARANTEED UNBREAKABLE FRONT" in it. This front is composed of 400 one-inch-square compartments. Every one being joined separately. There is not one chance in a hundred of even one of these compartments breaking down, but for argument's sake we will say a few may—even then the balance are fully capable of holding the front intact.

This Weather Should Bring You Over Here

With your heart set on a new suit of clothes the crisp, hallish weather of the past few days should start you toward a tailor shop.

Here are a few things to consider that may influence you to give us an order—this Fall.

We have been 20 years in business at the same location and our business has grown larger every year.

We are quite a ways out of the beaten path—but nobody seems to mind it after the first trip over here. This shows that a man will go out of his way to get just what he wants in clothes.

We guarantee absolute satisfaction in style, fit, wear and workmanship. This expression is rather hackneyed in all advertising—but if it is so, we may as well put it into our copy. And it is so at 96 Court Street.

Every coat built here contains our famous registered design of "The-front-that-won't-break-down."

You can't get this design anywhere else although many imitations are offered by other tailors who show the class to which they belong by trying to copy a sneak.

Our prices for suit or overcoat run $15 to $25—the cloth and trimmings determining the price—not your looks, or a clever game of talk on our part.

We would just as soon make you a suit for $15 as a suit for $25—provided you like the cloth. And except for the cloth, the lower-priced suit will be identical with the one at the higher figure.

If you like the tone of this advertisement come over to our tailor shop and get the rest of the story—see the goods—do business with us—and be happy.

A Blow to Sympathy

Since Emotion Is No Longer a Psychic Necessity, the World Is Not Satisfactory to the Old-Fashioned

By FRANCES GARSIDE

In recent years women have become so self-controlled that they now violate tradition. They do not take on as they formerly took on when there was a death or any other sorrow of any kind, and the almost incredible story is told by Mrs. Lysander John Appleton that she has attended seven funerals this year, and not at one of them was it necessary to fan the chief mourner.

And she is justly indignant.

"I have fanned mourners all the way to the country and back so often," she said, "that I know I have expressed my sympathy in this way for a distance of 3,000 miles.

"I have soaked enough handkerchiefs to cover the Rocky Mountain range, and the tears of sympathy I have shed while telling a woman in sorrow to be resigned and not scream so loud, would float a battleship.

"But what do I hear now? That the chief mourner needs no fanning, no one to wipe her tears away, positively refuses to let friends come in and take charge of the house, will accept no pies sent in in a spirit of self-immolation, and talks of the ribbon craze!

"What are we coming to? Is the day coming when women will have trouble with a living husband, or bury a dead one without a tear? Is there to be no joy left on earth for the friend who longs to take in a plum pie, and hear all about the affliction.

"Is this perfect control of the emotions a peculiarity of this climate, or is it prevailing all over the United States?

"Things are indeed coming to a pretty pass when a woman passes through an affliction with dry eyes and her hat on straight!"

His Aero Aspirations Quashed

MISS STELTER finished arranging the last of the display cards of buttons and then gave a final pat to the large wads of her hair plastered over each of her ears as she warily located the distant form of the floorwalker.

"Mame," she called across the aisle. "Seen them airships?"

"Sure!" responded the girl at the handkerchiefs. "Art he said last night he'd take me up in one only he was afraid I'd yell. He knows a man who is cousin to a man who cleans an airship garage an'——"

"Charlie took me to look at one go up yesterday," interrupted Miss Stelter, ruthlessly. "Charlies always wants me to be in on everything. Say, it was great! I nearly broke my neck——"

"Three 'f' 10 cents a card. No, we ain't got none bigger for 10 cents.

"Wouldn't some people treat you, always wanting more'n their money's worth! Well, we looked at one of them things floating around in the sky till I was dizzy. Then I grabbed Charlie by the arm. 'Don't you never,' I said to him, 'don't you never go up in one of those machines as long as you know me, Charlie Johnson! You've got to promise!'"

"Wha'd he say?" inquired the girl at the handkerchief counter.

"I oughta known better," pursued Miss Stelter. "I ought-a remembered Charlie's high-strung nature, and how it always makes him stubborn to cross him. But I was that foolish! It made my head ache to think of his being a thousand miles up in the air and me down below wondering if two baskets 'd be enough to gather up the pieces in. Anyhow, I'm nervous.

"Hermes goods three cases to the rear. No, madam, we don't carry that style button. I tell you that we don't, so what's the use of looking for it here?

Wouldn't Promise

"I'd like to give those people a piece of my mind who think because this is the basement they can impose on us! No I said, 'Charlie Johnson, you can just promise me this minute!' You know how stern Charlie can look when he wants to—I suppose it comes from ordering people to step forward in the air—and he just turned his full expression on me. And then he said he wouldn't.'

"No," said the girl at the handkerchiefs, "is he that stubborn?"

"Uhuh," said Miss Stelter, proudly. "That man is a regular stone wall. He said a man that was a man courted danger instead of running from it, and it was a duty he owed——"

"Six cents a dozen, these here are eight. Five pfennigs down. I wish people would go 'long about their business and stop interrupting! He said he wouldn't humor me in such foolishness.

"But aren't you afraid?' I ast him. He just laughed at me in a scornful sort of way. 'Afraid,' he said. 'Me afraid! Well, I guess not! Going up in airships is the best thing I do! Why, I'm perfectly at home in the air. Of course,' he says, 'I've never been up in one of these here machines, but being on top of a skyscraper shows a fellow what he can stand. These people who talk about danger, huh!' I felt proud of Charlie when he talked like that!"

"Of, course, you did," agreed the girl at the handkerchiefs. "I know when Art says"——

"But I wasn't going to give in," went on Miss Stelter. "It's bad habit to get into. 'But it's dangerous,' I told him.

"Charlie just hooted. 'Dangerous!' he said. 'About as much danger as you could put in your eye! The machines are perfectly harmless and you can manage 'em with a single twist of the wrist, because I've read about 'em. I expect I'll buy one when they come down cheaper. Why, there won't be any accidents when everybody travels by airship. They're great!'

A Piece of Paper.

"We were standing looking up with our necks most broke an' me hanging on to Charlie's arm, coaxing him. I was bound to get my way, though I was proud to hear him talk.

"Right in the middle of a sentence Charlie give a yell that you could have heard a mile off and waved his arms like a threshing machine. 'Run!' he shrieked, 'run for your life! The thing'll get us all!' and he attacked it.

"You see somebody in an upper story of a building had dropped an open newspaper from a window and Charlie's off eye had caught a glimpse of the thing floating down on top of our heads—it was getting kind of dusk—and I guess he thought an airship had got loose and dropped.

"Say, you ought to have heard the people laugh! I was awful ashamed, but the newspaper dropped right on my hat and covered me up.

"Charlie came around last night and I told him what I thought of him, putting a lady in such a position. But he promised he'd never go up in one of the things, anyhow!"

"Well, I should think you'd be relieved," said the girl at the handkerchiefs. "Men are the limit."

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

TOO MATTER-OF-FACT

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am twenty-nine and recently made the acquaintance of a young lady of eighteen. I have never kept company with her, but she appeals very favorably to me.

Do you think the discrepancy in age is too great to make a good match, and ought I, in your opinion, to look for some one more nearly my own age?

A MAN should not look for a wife in such a matter-of-fact manner; besides a reasonable difference in age does not make the slightest difference.

The fundamental reason for marriage is a sincere love between the man and the woman. Do not go into marriage in any other spirit than this, for it will never lead to happiness.

Try and find out if you are congenial and companionable, and think seriously before you take the final step.

MAKE HIM EXPLAIN

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

When a young man tells a girl he loves her, but gives no hint that he desires her as his life partner, would the girl be showing a lack of pride and self-respect if she acknowledged to him that she returned his love? Also, do you think the girl would cheapen herself in his estimation by her admission, or might it perhaps make him love her all the more?

H.

A MAN has no right to tell a woman of his love if he does not intend to marry her.

Ask him what he means by such a proposal, for if he really loves you he will want to marry you.

If you find that he has been misleading you he certainly is not worthy of your regard.

At all events give him a chance to explain. He will respect you far more, whatever the result, if he realizes that you are self-respecting and honest in your feelings.

RETURN THEM

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I have been engaged to a young man. We held a reception for our friends and received many valuable pieces of cut glass, china, linens, etc., as gifts.

Since then I had cause to find fault with him and broke the engagement, returning his ring.

What am I to do with all the presents sent by our friends? Am I to return each and every piece, or am I to keep them?

P. P. E.

EVERY present should be returned, partly because they do not belong to you alone and then because they were sent to you for an occasion which has suddenly been changed and is not going to take place.

The New Idea that does away with the Greatest of Corset Discomforts

R&G CORSETS ABDOBAND

Do not Compress but Support the Abdomen

The "ABDOBAND" holds the abdomen in the normal position and positively prevents the corset from riding up. It takes the strain from the hose supporters and prevents the tearing of the hose.

The feature is a band fastened to the inside of the corset, the ends of which protrude through slits and fasten with buckles on the outside of the corset next to the hips.

You will find the R & G "ABDOBAND" Corset by far the most satisfactory relief from corset discomfort and inconvenience.

The Cooks who have used the Single Damper of the

Crawford Ranges

will never go back to the troublesome two-damper range

The cost of the food spoiled by mistakes in regulating the ordinary two-damper ranges amounts to a large sum.

The Single Damper of the Crawford affords absolute fire and oven control by one motion—slide the knob to "kindle," "bake" or "check," the range does the rest.

The Oven of the Crawford has cup-joint heat flues which heat everywhere alike and make it the quickest and surest of bakers.

The Two Hods (patented) in the base—one for ashes instead of the old clumsy ash pan—one for coal, is a great trouble-saving feature.

Gas Ovens and Broilers above or at end of range, if desired.

Ask the Crawford agent to show you and write us for circulars.

PHIPPS, FORMER ACTOR, SLAIN

Harry W. Phipps, who twenty years ago was a member of the old Boston Museum Stock Company, was robbed and murdered in Chicago, according to dispatches from that city received today. His body was discovered at the bottom of a stairway at No. 9 East Kinzie street, Chicago, with the neck broken. There were also a number of bruises. Nothing of value was found in his pockets, though there were a number of empty envelopes addressed to his sister and postmarked Boston.

The Chicago police are making an investigation.

Phipps was a brother of Charles E. Phipps of No. 54 Upton street, Boston, and a member of the woolen firm of Lovett, Hart & Phipps Company, 40 Kingston street. William B. Phipps of No. 25 Upton street, South End, also is a brother. The business at Bedford and Kingston streets, is also a brother. William B. Phipps said the family had received a telegram from a Chicago undertaker notifying them of the death.

We guarantee a Roxbury undertaker to make all necessary arrangements to have the body brought home as soon as possible. The funeral will be private, and burial will be at Mt. Hope Cemetery.

Mr. Phipps said his brother had been away from Boston for fifteen years, during which he had travelled extensively, aged today.

MISSIONARIES IN CHINA SAFE

LONDON, Sept. 15.—A cable stating that all foreign missionaries in the Chinese province of Szechuen are safe was received by the China Inland Mission Society from Pekin today.

At a meeting of the Council of the Empire today it was decided to vote a considerable appropriation for the relief of flood sufferers in the Yang Tse Kiang valley and throughout Szechuen, Hupeh, Ngan-Hwei and Kiangsu provinces, and to take eternal precautions to safeguard the lives and property of foreigners.

All of the available troops which can be spared from other districts will be sent into the provinces of Szechuen, it is up in arms. Lawlessness of every form has followed in the wake of the flood. Famine and pestilence, which came after the disaster, are adding to the suffering of the people.

BATAVIA MAN IS KILLED BY BOMB

BATAVIA, N. Y., Sept. 15.—A man was killed and his wife seriously injured as the result of a Black Hand bomb explosion in the yard of their home in South Swan street today.

MRS. LASSEN TO TELL HER STORY

Mrs. Catherine Lassen, the rich East Braintree woman who remains in the Dedham jail from principle when she could furnish the $200 bail in cash, will be taken to Weymouth this evening and remain in the police station until to-morrow, when she will be arraigned in the Quincy police court on a charge of assault and battery preferred by one of her maids.

It was said to-day that Mrs. Lassen would still a story in court that would make sensation. She declined to-day to tell exactly what the story is, except to say that it referred to her family affairs.

Although a richly dressed and having plenty of money in the bank, her husband asserts, Mrs. Lassen has made no attempts to get out of prison. She is one of four women prisoners in the Dedham jail, and accepts the regular prison fare without dissent. To-day she had hashed salt fish for dinner, with bread and black coffee.

Husband Blames Wife.

The Lassens live in the most pretentious house in East Braintree. It is worth $30,000. The family consists of the husband and wife, a married son, a single son who lives at home and a daughter who is in Europe. There is everything in the house to make life pleasant and harmony.

Victor Lassen, the head of the family, and the inventor of a metal that has made his fortune—a metal that is used in the construction of the great battleships—says that his wife's bad temper is the cause of their trouble and her present plight.

"When my wife was before Judge Avery in the Quincy court," said Mr. Lassen, "and she was fined $200 bail, she told the judge that she had no money and would not be able to give bail.

"The judge knew that she had money and he told her he would take her note for bail. She would not give it and so she was sent to jail. I thought she could get her because it was not necessary. She has $2,000 in cash and I know of how she could have put up cash bail.

Calls Her Stubborn.

"But, anyhow, I am through with her. I have brought a suit for divorce against her and if she does get out of jail I shall not let her come back home.

"My wife had all that any woman could desire. If let her go to Europe and just before she attached the girl she returned from a trip to Florida. She was down there three months.

"In the bill for divorce which I have brought through my attorney, Guy H. Ham, I charge her with cruelty of temper. If she were not stubborn she would not be in jail. She is three decades of stubbornness, and not because of principle, as she maintains."

TO-DAY'S STOCK MARKETS

STATE ST. NEWS FOR INVESTORS

The theory is entertained in very high quarters that most of the foreign selling of securities is due to parliament abroad that the business boom in Germany and other countries has passed the climax and that war talk is encouraged simply to cover up the true reason for selling.

Although nearly all conservative interests believe the stock market will soon very much lower before there is a definite turn for the better, investors buying is beginning to make its appearance. It must be admitted that most of the standard stocks are very cheap from an investment point of view.

Considerable of the buying of Union Pacific is declared to be for the account of insiders. One director has been advising his friends to get in. In some cases at least he has offered his personal guarantee against loss through any reduction of the dividend in the immediate future.

The decline of the last six weeks has discouraged a great many bulls, and persons who believe in buying on a scale down are putting part of their money into the market now. Union Pacific under 160 has discounted a reduction of the dividend that may not come, and St. Paul at 140 is selling lower than at any time since Baltimore & Ohio, Lackede Gas, Atchison and Northern Pacific have discounted large decreases in earnings. Stocks like Consolidated Gas are at a very attractive investment level.

American Telephone & Telegraph stock is one of the few that holds firm, and the reason is found in the financial statement. It was the Telephone Trust that first discovered the possibilities of using the telegraph as a means of communication among subscribers on its lines. The telephone company is three or four times as large as the telegraph company. Heretofore, the general public has been prohibited from using the cables by their absurdly high rates. It is true that even these high rates did not yield handsome profits to the cable companies, but the reason was plain, and the American Telephone Company, with the new cable arrangement announced yesterday between Western Union, is in position to extend the day letter and night letter service of the telegraph service of the telegraph companies to the cable department.

Grand Trunk has ordered two switching locomotives, the Lima, Ohio, Post says, for the Detroit, Grand Haven & Milwaukee, like the two mikado locomotives and Baltimore & Ohio nine cars.

Auto News

By J. C. KERRISON.

There is a strong probability of Harry Grant being found at the starting line of one of the big cars during the coming Vanderbilt road race in Savannah. With the retirement of the Alco from the racing world and Grant's personal disposition to forego the excitement of race driving, it was at one time considered as he would give up racing.

Since then, however, his services have been sought by several of the companies who thoroughly believe in the publicity proposition and he has received several flattering offers. Grant, despite his retirement to the latter, and it is understood on the best of authority that he has received flattering invitations to join the Lozier camp, and he can, if he so desires, be nominated in prize Nationals, Cobes or the Simplex in the southern races.

Just what Grant will do remains to be seen. The personal idea of the writer is, however, that when the time comes to start, Grant will be found at the wheel of some big, capable car.

The Savannah Automobile Club has seen fit to take advantage of the recent rulings of the Manufacturers' Contest Board, and has so revised the conditions of the Savannah and Vanderbilt trophy races that they shall be open events instead of for stock cars as heretofore.

Under the ruling the Savannah trophy race is for cars of from 231 to 300 cubic inches piston displacement and the Vanderbilt race is for machines from 161 to 230 inches piston displacement.

Work on the construction of the new building for the United States Tire Company at the junction of Beacon street and Commonwealth avenue is to be started immediately and by the first of next year the present equipped buildings devoted to the manufacture of tires is to be found in the immediate vicinity of the fine administration buildings at Allston.

William Small, the new manager of the Oldsmobile Boston Company, is by no means a stranger in this section, for the past few years, been identified with the Hartford Rubber Work Company, both as salesman and branch manager, and while so becoming identified with the motor car industry.

Mr. Small has been for several years traveling out with the Oldsmobile factory, and in coming to Boston as the Oldsmobile branch he is but coming among his friends, and with the determination to keep the Oldsmobile in the front rank of motor cars.

THOS. W. LAWSON, BOSTON FINANCIER, author of "Frenzied Finance," in Everybody's Magazine, says (Boston Post, Aug. 16): "Western Canada offers the greatest opportunities—the wealth is in the land—This Canada is the greatest place you ever saw—I'm tempted to move out there—The American ought to go into partnership with the Canadians—They've got everything, and we've got the money, Canada, of Canada Universal, New York says there is no other area left for the world's wheat supply—It is now Canada's turn—Canada is the last great country left open to the Russian, and from the American standpoint Canada is the best—250 miles to the south Twenty years hence the population of Canada may be 50,000,000—Canada is the place for you," Mr. Schurman's address was: "Canada, Its Resources and Possibilities." If the Vestry Can Recall and Discharge a Clergyman—Who Represents the Laws of God—

Why Can't the People Recall a Judge Who Merely Administers the Laws of Man?

Mr. Taft and nearly all the judges and lawyers tell us that it is outrageous to suggest giving the people power to remove a judge from the bench.

The people may have the power to remove mayors, sheriffs, governors and so on down to the official rat poisoners.

But for some mysterious reason the people are unfit to remove the judges—in spite of the fact that they have elected them and pay them.

The people, we are told, are unfit to recall judges from the bench, because judges administer the law. And if a judge knew that the people had the power to take him off the bench, he might be afraid to administer the law, he might become dishonest and unjust as a judge for fear that the people would take him away from his job and his salary.

That is, in substance, what Mr. Taft said when he vetoed the Arizona Statehood bill because the Arizona Constitution gave the people the power to remove their judges.

It is not much of a compliment to the judges to suggest that they would be afraid to do their duty if they knew the people had the power to recall them.

In justice to Mr. Taft we must say that he has not been afraid to do his duty. He did not hesitate to offend a great class of farmers that unwisely opposed Canadian reciprocity. He fought for reciprocity and won regardless of the fact that it might cost him his re-election.

And Mr. Taft fought with admirable courage and disregard of consequences for the splendid arbitration treaties—in spite of the fact that many savages and fools opposed them.

It is only giving Mr. Taft his due to say that he is a man who does what he believes to be his duty, without regard to the possibility of defeat in the coming election. And no fear of removal from his office by the people to-morrow—if they had the power to remove him—would keep him from doing what he believed to be his duty.

How does he happen to have such a poor opinion of the judges as to believe that they would be afraid to do their duty if they knew the people had the power to remove them?

And where did he get that poor opinion of the people which leads him to believe that a majority of them would combine to remove a just judge?

Mr. Taft does or does not believe that the people as a whole are honest, intelligent, friendly to just, fearless administration of the law and hostile only to corruption on the bench or elsewhere.

If Mr. Taft believes that the people are honest, well-meaning and fond of justice, what made him veto a Statehood bill including a constitution that would give to the people the right to recall their judges?

The fact is, however, that Mr. Taft spoke in his veto as a lawyer and a former judge, not as a disinterested citizen. It was the vanity of his profession that spoke, the memory of former judicial dignity and entrenched egotism, not the real, natural, broad-minded Taft, but Taft the narrow lawyer spoke in his veto.

Now, about our friends, the parsons, that have charge of the souls and the everlasting welfare of those that sit below them.

Mr. Taft, we suppose, knows that practically every clergyman, at least in the Protestant Church, can be put out of his pulpit at any time by the people that put him there.

Mr. Taft does not protest against this. He goes regularly to some church, where he and the other gentlemen can, if they choose, "recall" the gentleman in the pulpit and send him about his business.

If a few nice deacons or elders or vestrymen or Unitarian thingumbobs are good enough to recall and put out of his job a holy clergyman, why are not all of the people good enough to recall and put out of HIS job an unholy and unrighteous judge when they detect his unrighteousness?

Mr. Taft, we suppose, won't pretend that a great clergyman is lower in dignity, honor, character and intelligence than a great judge.

We suppose Mr. Taft won't assert that the laws expounded by the judge on the bench can be compared in importance with the eternal laws expounded and explained by the clergyman in the pulpit.

Yet for any little reason that clergyman can be put out of his pulpit.

We say that if nine vestrymen are good enough to discharge a clergyman who does his very best simply because they do not like him, then a million American citizens are good enough to discharge a judge who does his very worst.

And, by the way, Mr. Taft and others, you think judges would be afraid to tell the truth and administer the law justly if the people could remove them. Why don't you suggest that clergymen would be afraid to let out the right kind of threats about hell fire, or induced to smooth the heavenly path of the corruptionists for fear of losing their jobs and their salaries?

The right to recall judges would put the fear of disgrace in the hearts of the dishonest judges—and they, unfortunately, constitute a pretty good working minority—and that right to recall would not offend or frighten the honest judge.

Talk about this to your neighbor and ask him what he thinks about the notion that lawyers and judges as a class are above all other Americans. If this is a republic, all power belongs to the people, including the power to remove an unjust or dishonest judge.

Mr. Galvin's Interview With Archbishop O'Connell

Next Sunday's edition of the Sunday AMERICAN will contain an interview with the Most Rev. William H. O'Connell, D. D., archbishop of Boston, in which the head of this great archdiocese gives his impressions of the social and religious conditions of the people of Europe as he found them during his recent sojourn abroad.

No man is better qualified than he to measure men or the affairs of men, or to portray the atmosphere and circumstances of their surroundings.

The story the archbishop has told to our interviewer, who was sent to New York on this special assignment, is one that is as fascinating as it is thought-producing.

In his talk, the archbishop touched on topics which will for some time to come form food for discussion in the home circle, as well as in the parlors of the most exclusive clubs.

He draws lessons of grave import, to each of which he points the moral.

He advances arguments and reaches conclusions frankly and honestly, to which all men and women who are interested in the world's affairs as they are now developing literally hour by hour will give their full attention.

The clergyman, the student, the parent, the teacher of history, the journalist, the "man in the street," of every condition and walk of life, will find fruitful material in this interview with Boston's archbishop. It will be in next Sunday's AMERICAN.

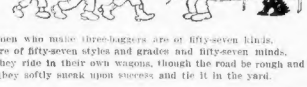
Lives of Great Men

WHEN Noah loaded up his boat and canned his hired hands,
He didn't point his compass for the bright and happy lands;
He merely drifted with the tide and let the lions roar,
And when the Ark went on the beach he knew he'd struck the shore.

Methusaleh, when but a child of seven hundred years,
Would never growl or nurse a grouch or bathe himself in tears;
He just let Nature take her course and never wasted breath
On reformation business, and he lived himself to death!

The redmen of the forests would go out to meet the foe
With a business-like appearance, never thinking of the woe;
They took the count without a howl and let the matter drop;
They figured when their breath was gone there still was time to stop.

When Barnum launched his greatest show he owned a crippled bear.
And a ninety-carat diamond, both guaranteed to wear;
And then he advertised the show, unlatched the entrance door,
And people gave him all their cash and tried to borrow more.



The men who make three-baggers are of fifty-seven kinds,
They're of fifty-seven styles and grades and fifty-seven minds.
But they ride in their own wagons, though the road be rough and hard.
And they softly sneak upon success and tie it in the yard.

He Writes About Pa's Funny Story

By WILLIAM F. KIRK

Pa was very happy when he came home last nite, he had a order from a Sunday paper for a funny story. He said Ma that there wud be at least fifty bucks in it for him. Oh, you clever man, sed Ma, when she kissed Pa, & then I can have forty of it, cuz I, for my new white dress?

I supposa you can, sed Pa, but he gulped. I herard that word out of the dickshunary—gulp, a verb, meaning to swallow hard, a sine of distress.

Well, dearest, sed Ma, what are you going to malk your story about? Oh, sed Pa, I thought I wud malk it about two song riters that got lost in the desert & had to lissen to thare own songs. Jest as thay are dying, Pa sed, one of them will rise on his elbow & sing a last ballad, like this:

My hart is parched & choked, deer frend,
The dying traveler sighed;
If yure hart is choked wud Artichoke?
His comrade then replied.

Are you going to put that in the piece, sed Ma. Sure I am, sed Pa. Well, sed Ma, maybe thirty dollars wud be stuff for me. I am afrade they wuddent give you fifty dollars for anything like that.

I thought it was kind of good, sed Pa. I jaffed myself wen I rote it. See how you like this verse:

A dying solger raised his head one (1) evning on the feeld,
I think that I am dying, boys, he sed;
Tell my wife I died a hero & that I reefused to yeld.

Though I have got my gizzard full of led.
He sank right down upon the ground & then his life it fled.
That poor yung dying solger with his gizzard full of led.

Is that going to be in the peece you are going to rite? sed Ma.

A why not, I shud like to know, sed Pa, is there any reason why it shouldent be in? No reason in the world, sed Ma, only I just happened to think that ten dollars wud do me this week, instead of forty.

I haven't finished telling you about the story, sed Pa, at the vary last the two dying song riters look at each other & say, Well, anyhow, I wud like to bet that Vince Bryant or Billy Cohn wud give us a lot of thare royalties if they had our thirst. & then they sang thare swan song, Pa sed. It goes like this:

All alone on the desert,
Dying out on the sand,
Two litlel song riters rested.
All in a foreign land.

"This is horribel, Horace," said one,
"Crule Fate I cant forgive.
Why shud us song riters die, I ask,
While mediocrity lives?"

Is that going to be in yure story? sed Ma.

Yes, sed Pa.

All rite, sed Ma, I dount want an, munny for a new white dress.

Don't miss "The Adventures of Harold Hangover," the thrilling baseball serial by William F. Kirk, author of "Little Bobby," in the Sunday AMERICAN.

In life, everything lies in the mass—materials are a mob—a man's measure is his ability to select, reject or organize.

Says Elbert Hubbard in his article, "System Spells Success," to be printed exclusively in next Sunday's AMERICAN.
